seo friendly has-tags: #ChambalRiverfront #KotaTourism #Hadoti #RajasthanTravel #RiverGhats #IncredibleIndia

description: The Chambal River Front sits along the banks of the Chambal in Kota, Rajasthan's Hadoti region. Kota rose as a Hadoti capital in the early 17th century, and the river has always been its lifeline. The modern riverfront joins stepped ghats, landscaped promenades and viewing decks with the old city's temples and palace silhouettes behind them. It is best known for calm evening walks, riverside aarti-style gatherings and reflections of the skyline on the water.

seo friendly has-tags: #KishorSagarLake #KotaLake #JagMandir #HadotiHeritage #LakePalace #RajasthanTravel description: Kishor Sagar Lake lies in the heart of old Kota, close to Garh Palace. The artificial lake is traditionally credited to the Bundi chieftain Dheer Deb in the 14th century. At its centre stands Jag Mandir, a small island palace raised in the 18th century for a Kota queen, with sandstone chhatris and arched pavilions. The lake is lovely at sunset, when the palace seems to float on the water.

seo friendly has-tags: #Gepernath #GaipernathMahadev #KotaDayTrip #ShivaTemple #HadotiNature #RajasthanHiddenGems

description: Gepernath (also written Gaipernath) is a Shiva temple tucked into a deep gorge a short drive from Kota, Rajasthan. Worshippers descend a flight of steps to a cave-like sanctum beneath rocky cliffs, with a stream that turns into a waterfall in the monsoon. The setting, a mix of rock, forest and running water, is the main architectural drama here, and it feels like a pilgrimage into the earth.
